DETAILED ACTION

Applicants' amendments and request for reconsideration in the response filed on 8/2/07 are acknowledged and the amendments entered.

Claims 1-44 are currently pending, but only claims 1-18 and 43 are under examination. Claims 19-42 and 44 have been previously withdrawn from consideration.

Applicant's arguments in response to the previous Office action have been fully considered but they are not deemed to be persuasive. The following rejections and/or objections are reiterated from the previous Office action or newly applied but necessitated by applicant's amendments, and constitute the complete set presently being applied to the instant application. Rejections and/or objections not reiterated from the previous Office action are hereby withdrawn.

Claim Rejections-35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-18 and 43 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

This rejection is reiterated from the previous office action.

At least one embodiment of the claimed invention is drawn to a computer process comprising sequence information, evaluating the sequence information to identify ambiguous bases present within the sample sequence information by applying a rule based criteria, and evaluating the quality and coverage of the sample sequence information.

The following analysis of facts of this particular patent application follows the rationale suggested in the "Interim Guidelines for Examination of Patent Applications for Patent Subject Matter Eligibility" (OG Notices: 22 November 2005, available from the US PTO website at <http://www.uspto.gov/web/offices/com/sol/og/2005/week47/og200547.htm>).

The Guidelines states:

To satisfy section 101 requirements, the claim must be for a practical application of the § 101 judicial exception, which can be identified in various ways (Guidelines, p. 19):

- The claimed invention "transforms" an article or physical object to a different state or thing.*
- The claimed invention otherwise produces a useful, concrete and tangible result, based on the factors discussed below.*

In the instant case, at least one embodiment of the claimed invention merely manipulates data sequences and performs a series of calculations by algorithmic means. Thus, the process does not seem to transform an article or physical object to a different state or thing outside a computation device.

Furthermore, the invention does not produce a useful, concrete and tangible result. Specifically it does not produce a tangible result. Since the process merely manipulates data sequences and performs a series of calculations including application of mathematical functions without using or making available for use the results of the manipulation to enable its functionality and usefulness to be realized.

Applicant's argument filed 8/2/07 has been fully considered but it is not found persuasive. Applicant argues that the newly added step of "outputting at least the reportable ranges and sequence variants to a file" overcomes the rejection. See pages 17-18 of the response.

Art Unit: 1631

This is not found persuasive because at least for one embodiment, outputting to a file does not necessarily means that the outputted results could be accessed and used by a user. A step of outputting these results to a user may overcome the rejection.

Claim Rejections-35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-18 and 43 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. This is a new matter rejection.

The claims are amended to recite “wherein the reportable ranges comprise base sequence ranges related to the at least one sample having an associated quality value exceeding a confidence threshold.” Applicant asserts that support therefor is found in paragraphs 46, 78 and 90 of the specification. A review of these paragraphs and other sections of the specification does not find adequate support for the new limitation. Paragraph 46 discusses evaluating sequence data and confidence assessment but does not discuss reportable range for sample sequence information and a confidence threshold. Paragraph 78 does not describe either. While paragraph 90 discusses reportable range, it does not define reportable range as having an associated quality value exceeding a confidence threshold. Thus, the new limitation does not have adequate support in the specification and is deemed new matter.

Conclusion

No claim is allowed.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a).

Applicants are reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 C.F.R. §1.136 (a). A shortened statutory period for response to this final action is set to expire three months from the date of this action. In the event a first response is filed within two months of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the three-month shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 C.F.R. §1.136 (a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than six months from the mailing date of this final action.
